

SixStarCruises Redesign

November 11 2025

Contents

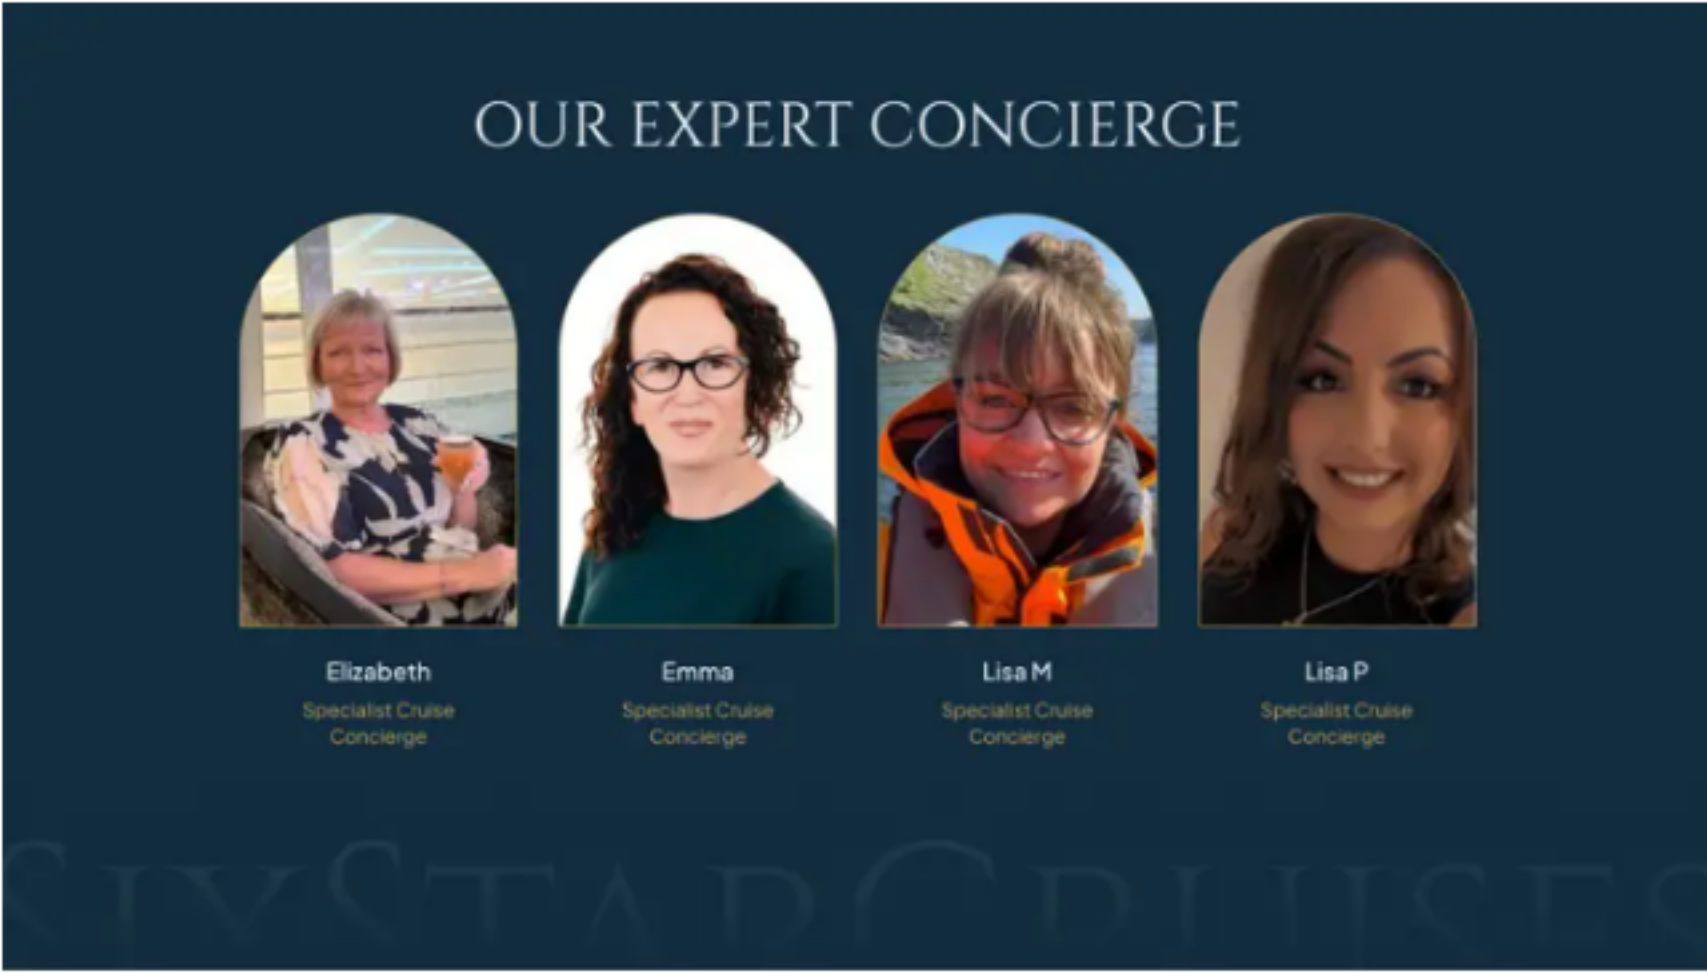

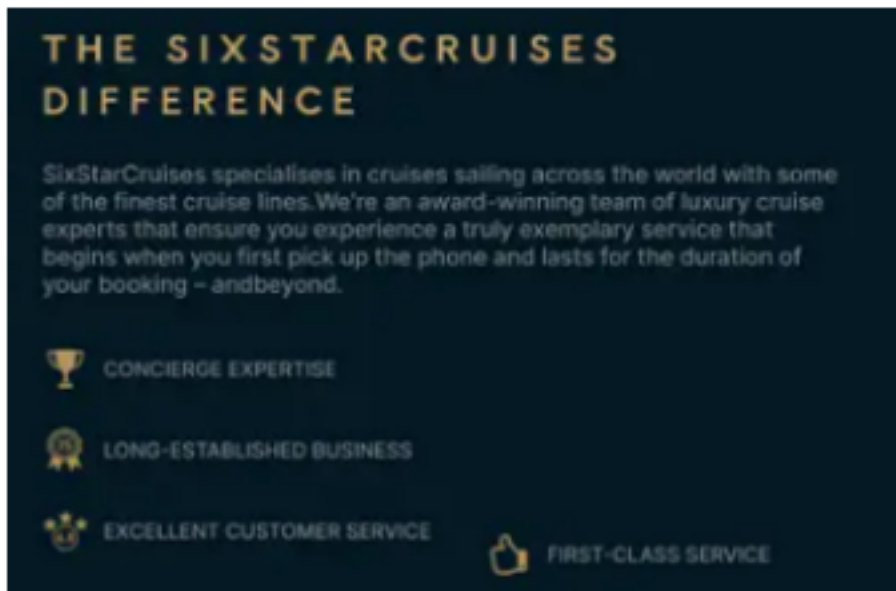

1. Home Page
2. Deals Page
3. Itinerary Page

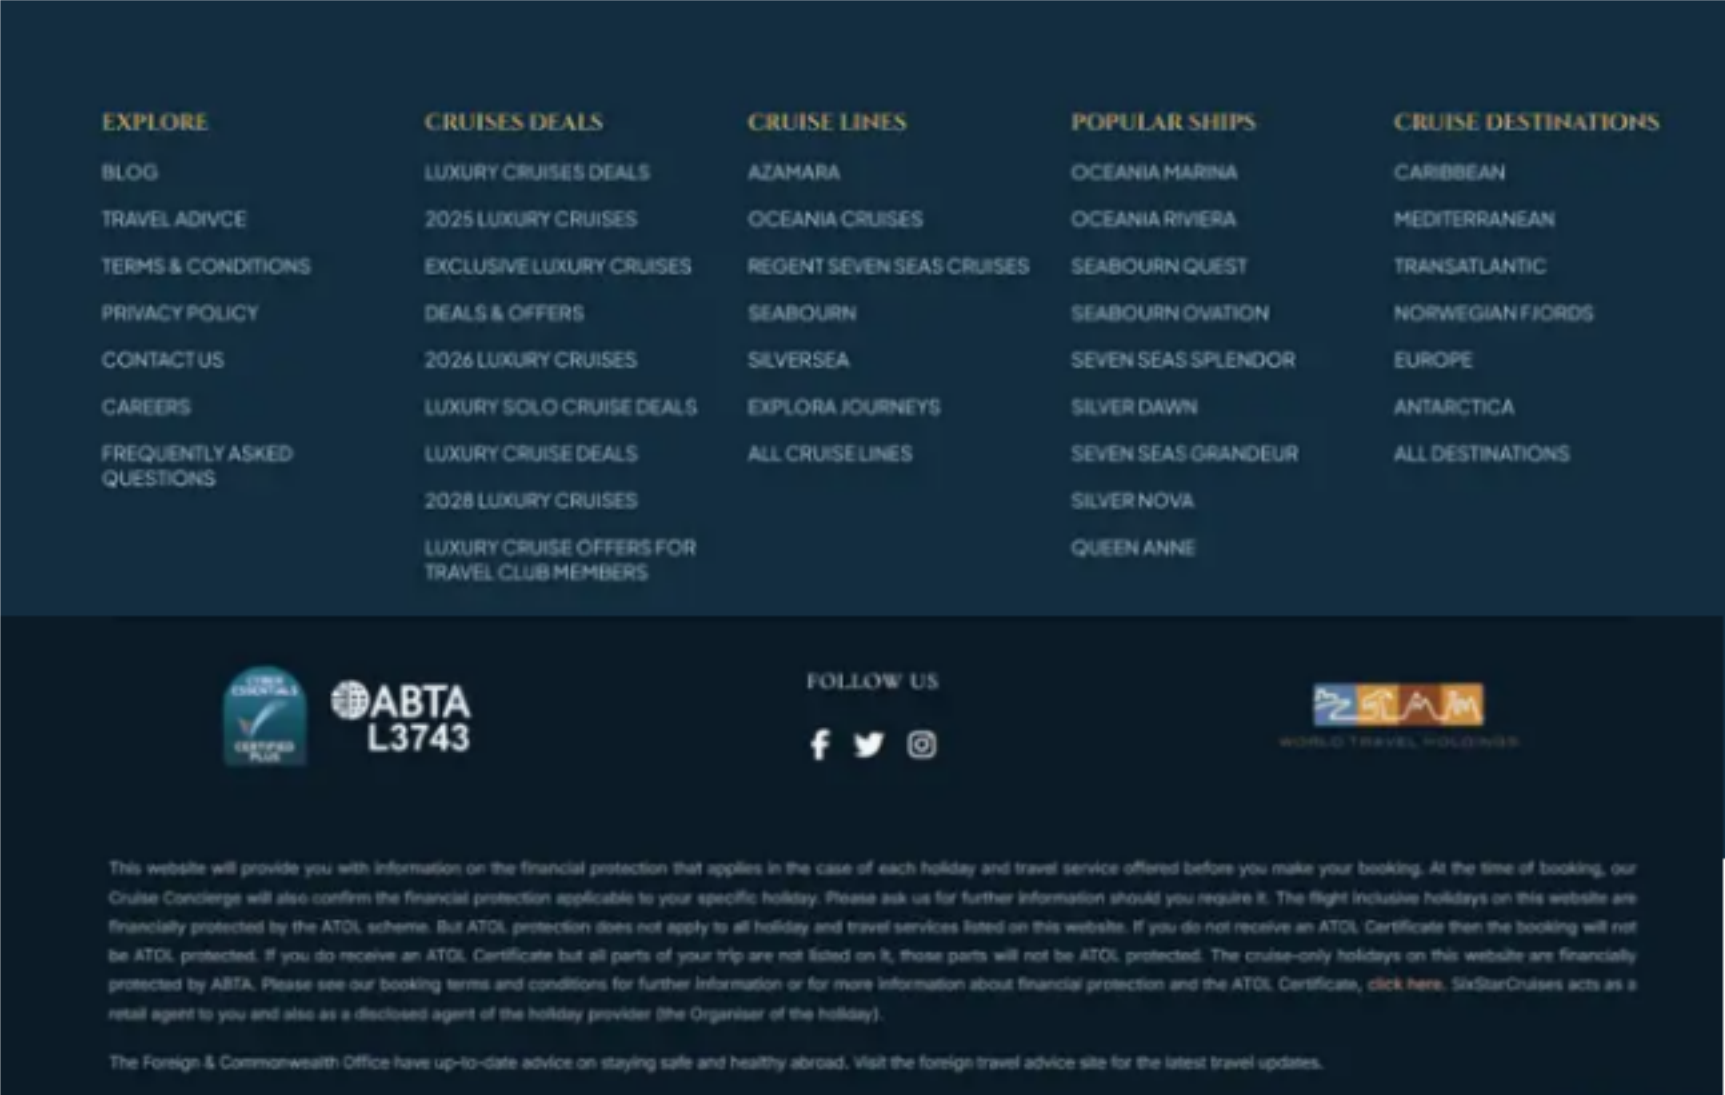

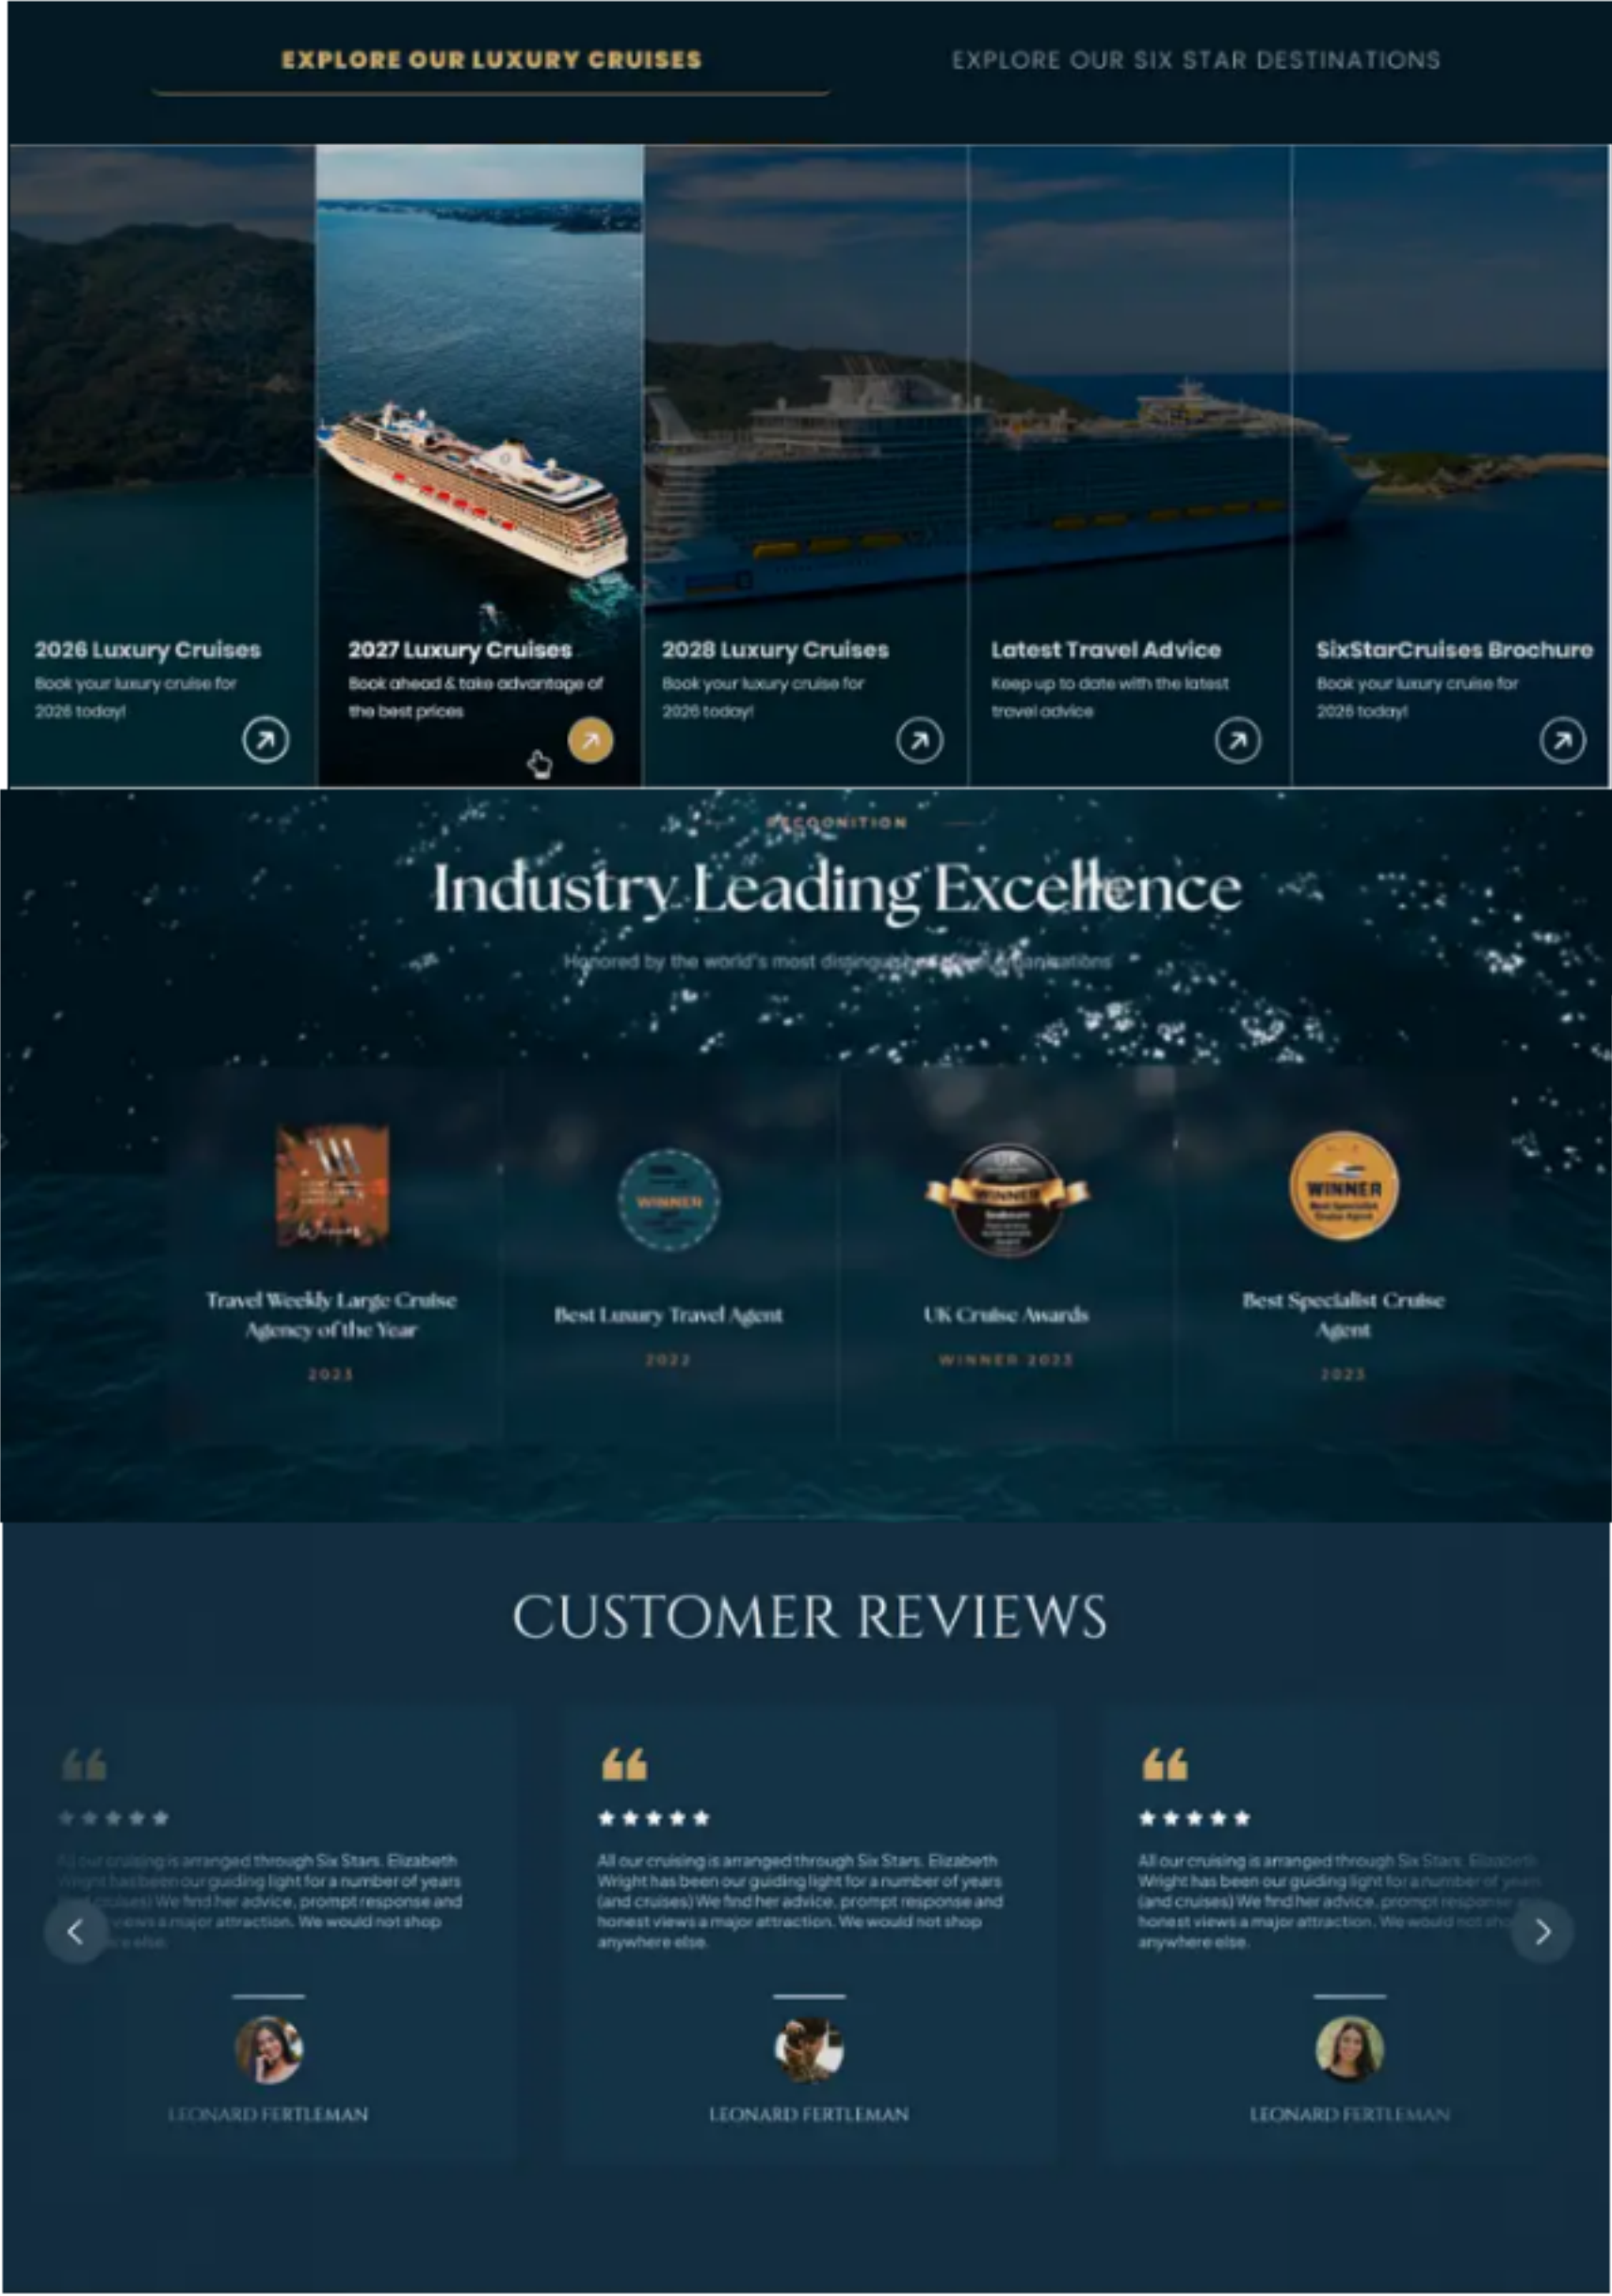

Cruise Line Promotions - We would need to showcase multiple per row, using the images we currently have on the website for this section

SixStarCruises Difference - We would like to use icons like these, and include a large video

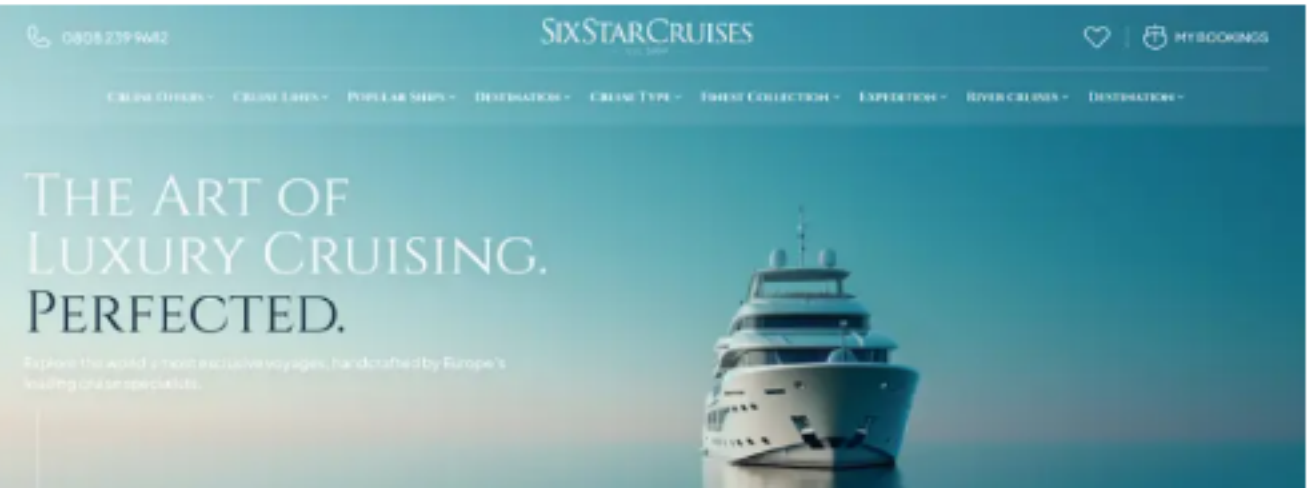

Offers section

We like the images in the navigation, however we have lots of items to display (for example under cruise lines, and destinations) Please could images be included, but maybe just as a 'featured' section with 3/4 images.

We like having the navigation blended with the image like this

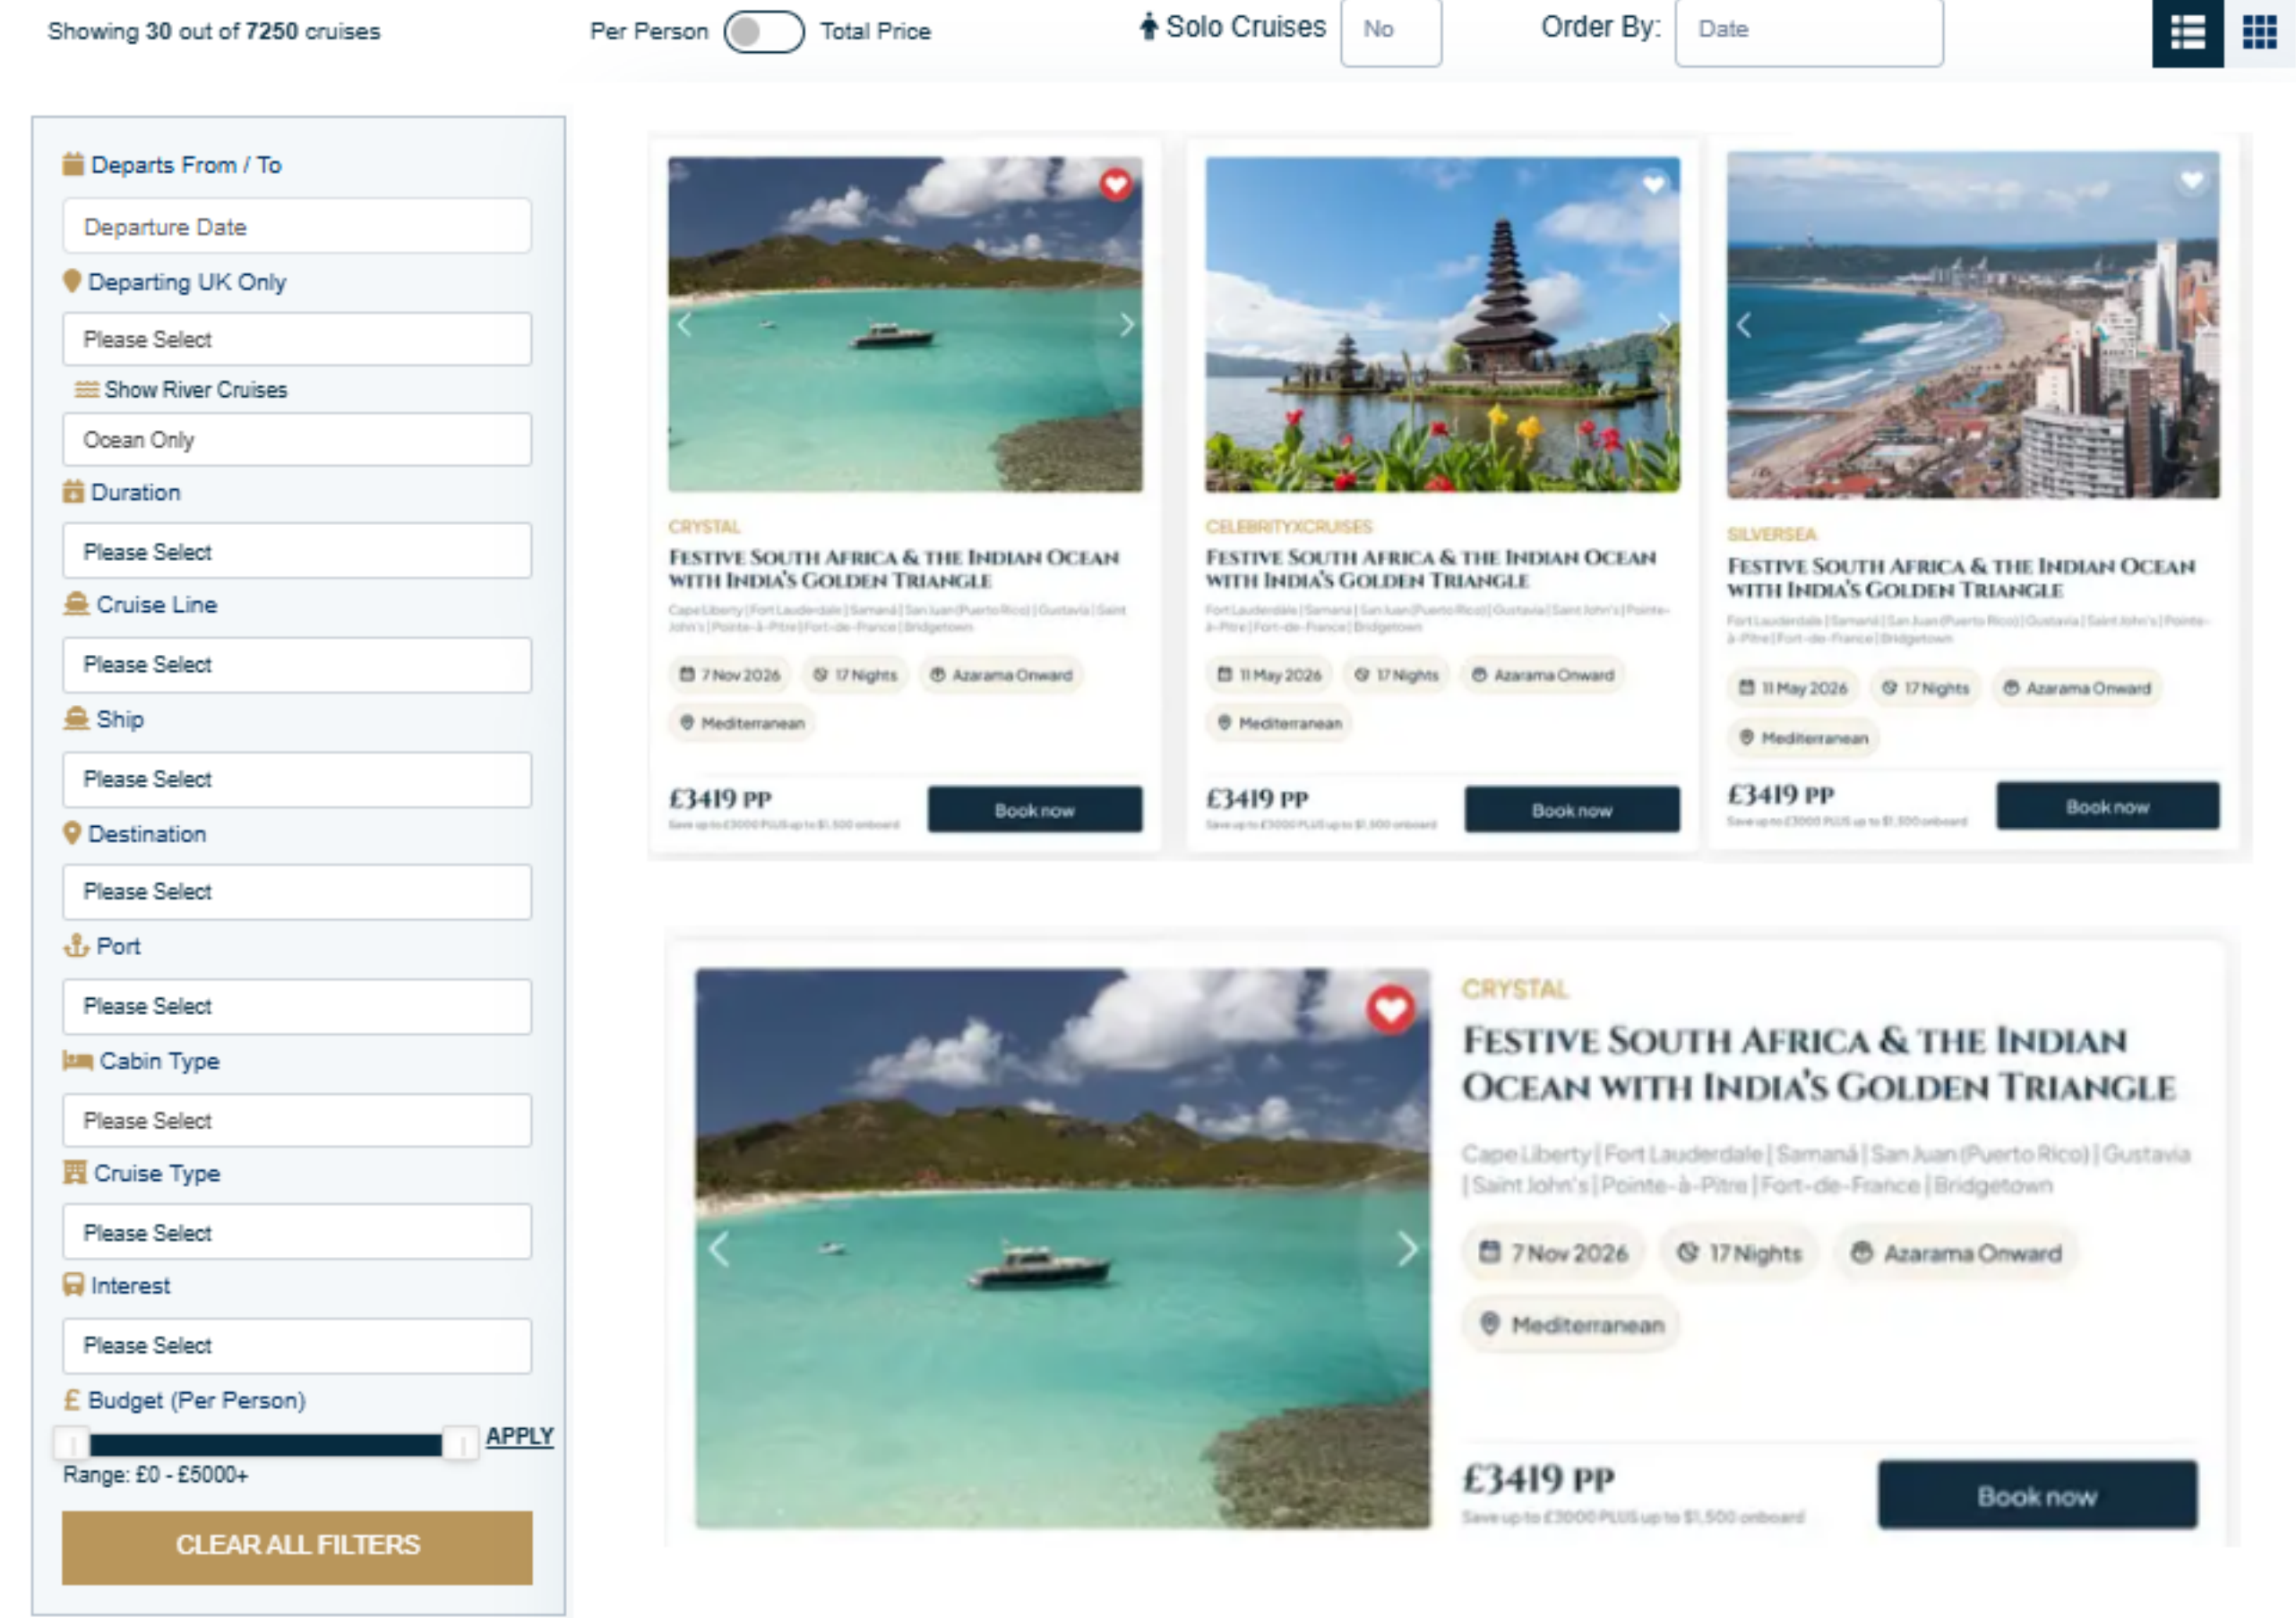

We also like the reviews overlaying the image

Navigation to remain consistent across pages.
Deals pages to also include image at the top

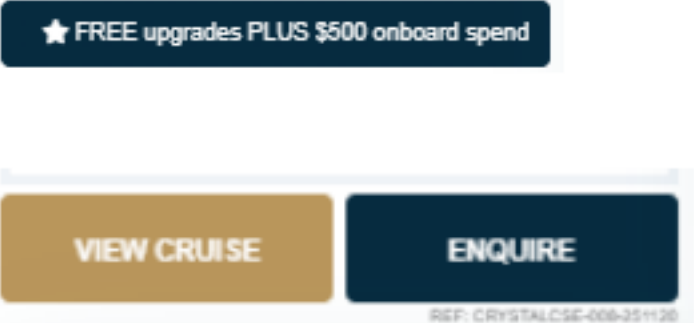

Section for Title & description at the top of deals pages. Happy to include a 'read more' section to limit what shows here

All filters to remain, and functionality of the drop downs for each

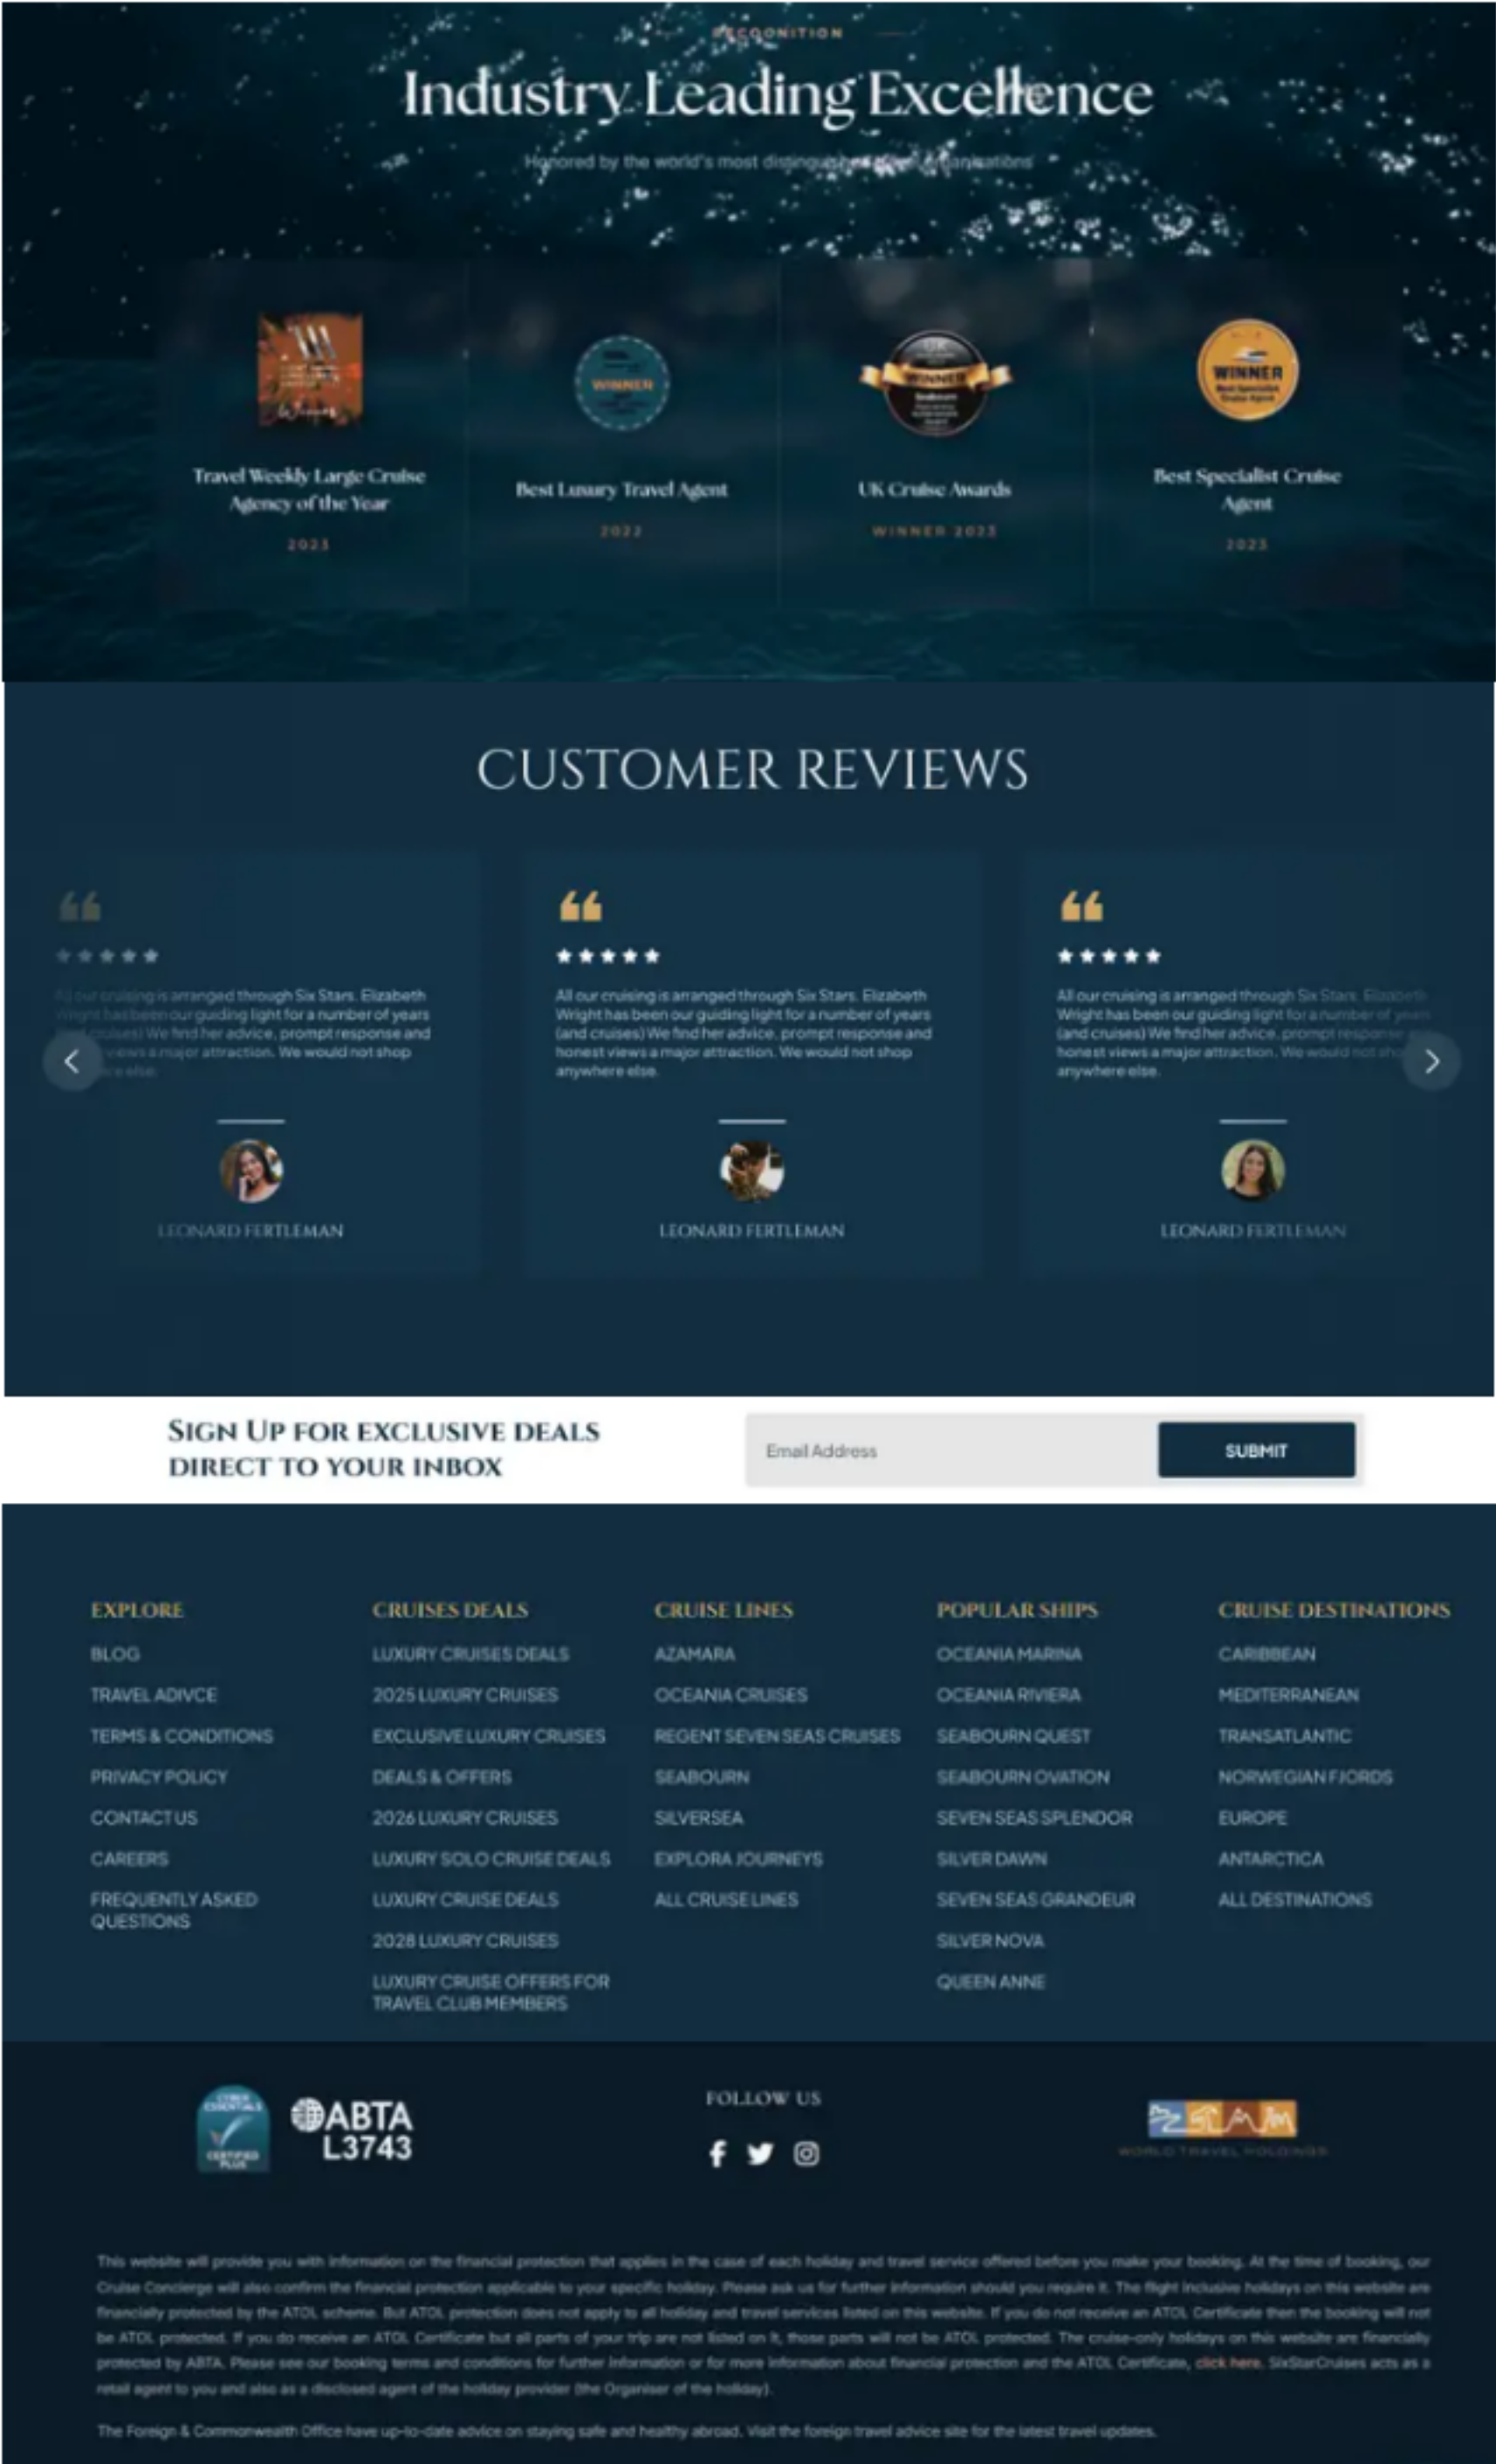

One view with 3 deals per row, and one with one per row

We need each deal to include, promotional messaging (below example from https://www.sixstarcruises.co.uk/search). As well as a 'View' and 'Enquire' button, and the 'REF'

We like this section to have something linking off to other areas of the website from these pages

Awards, reviews, sign up & footer to remain across all pages

We like the idea of having tabs, or something that anchors you down the page

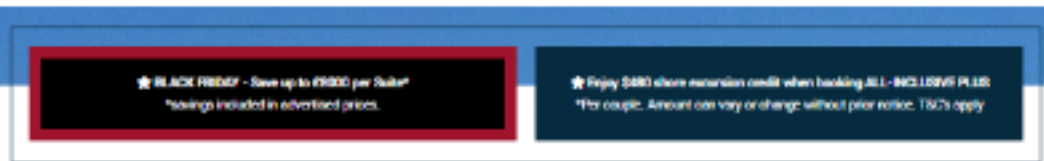

Navigation to remain the site sitewide

First fold of the page (both on desktop and mobile), to include all key information; cruise line, ship, logo, destination, duration, date, price, sailing name, port breakdown, call button, and add to wishlist button

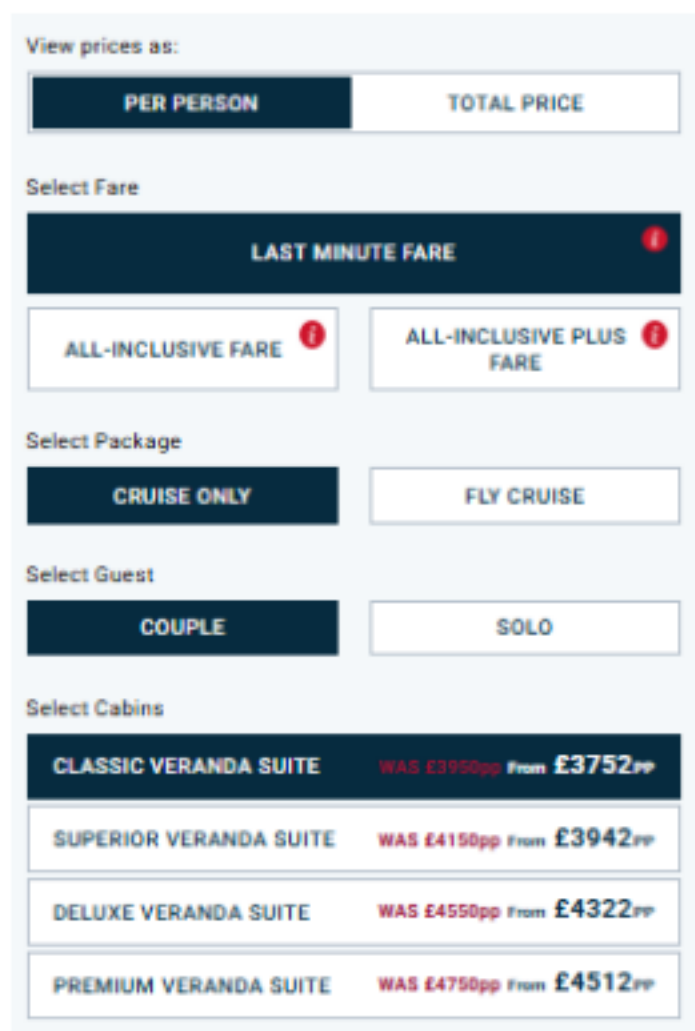

The promotional messaging would also need to be included here (up to 4 messages, and dynamically fit the width based on if theres 1 or 4 messages displaying

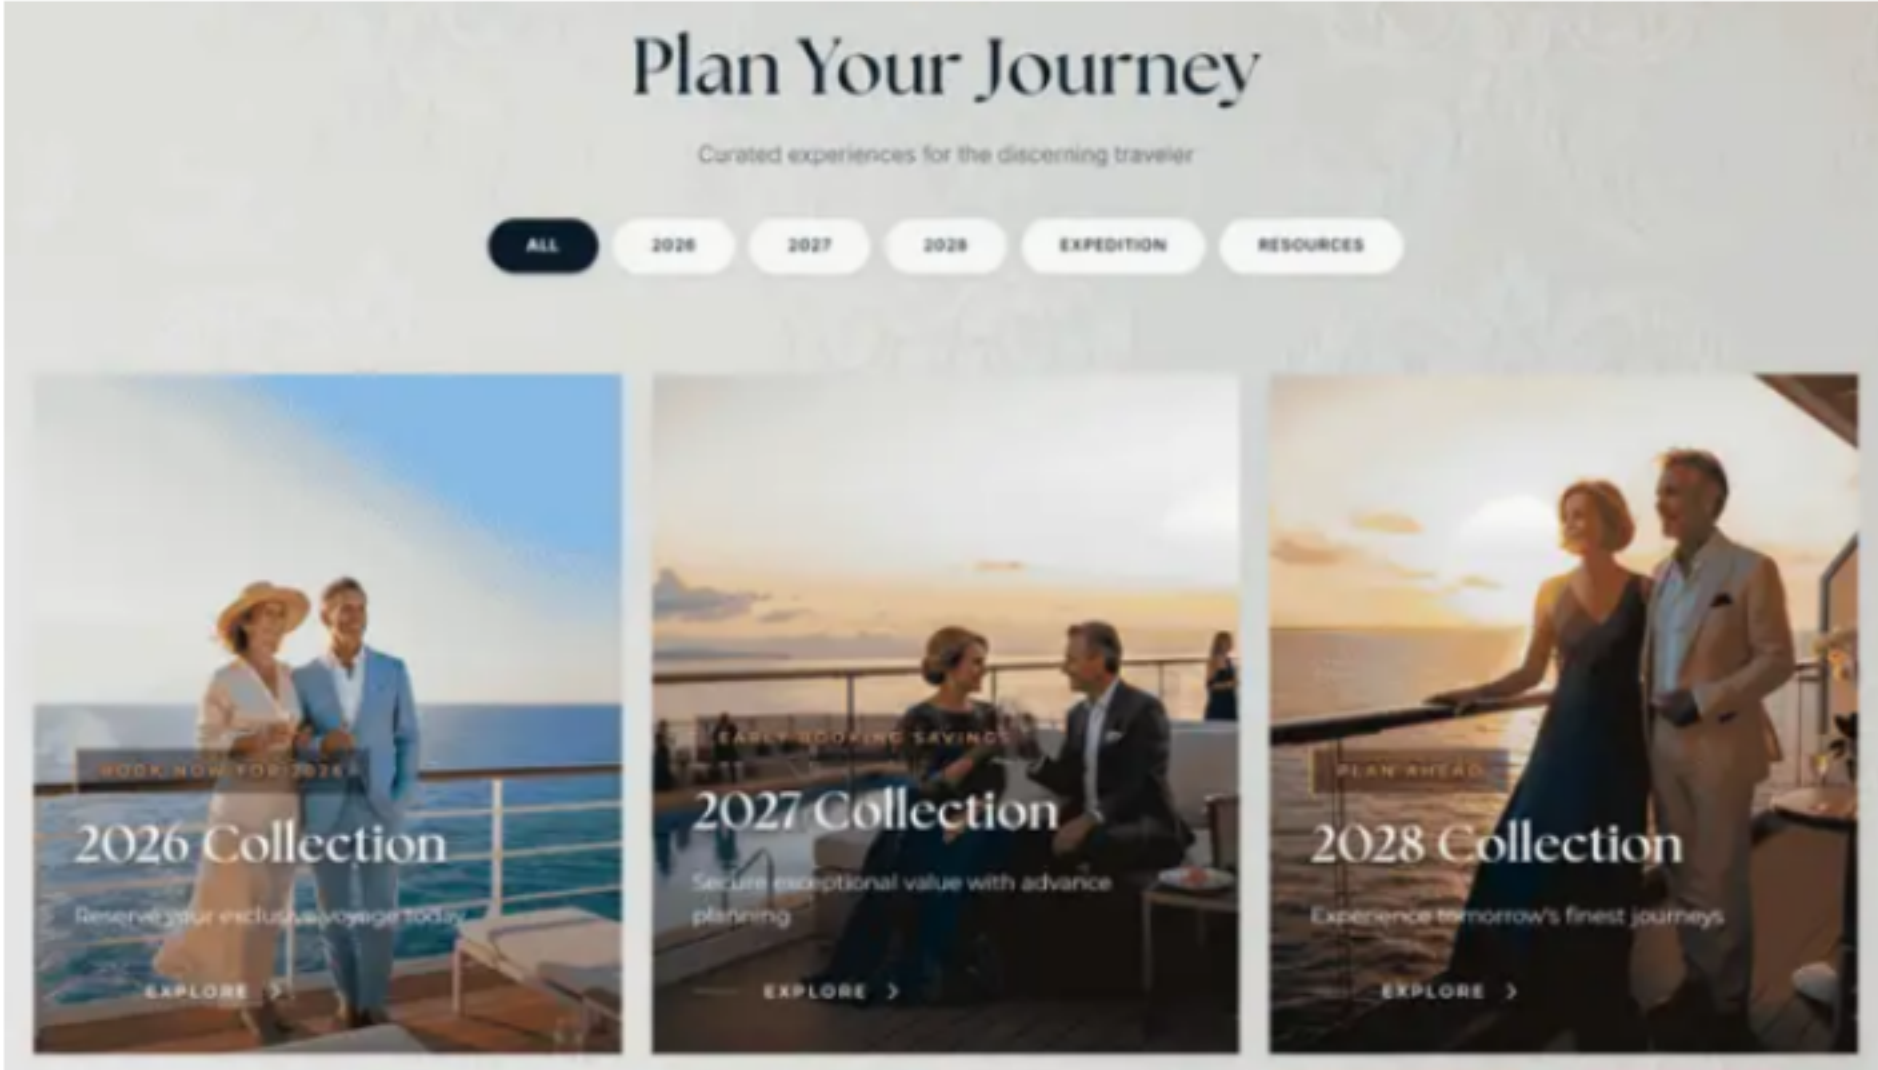

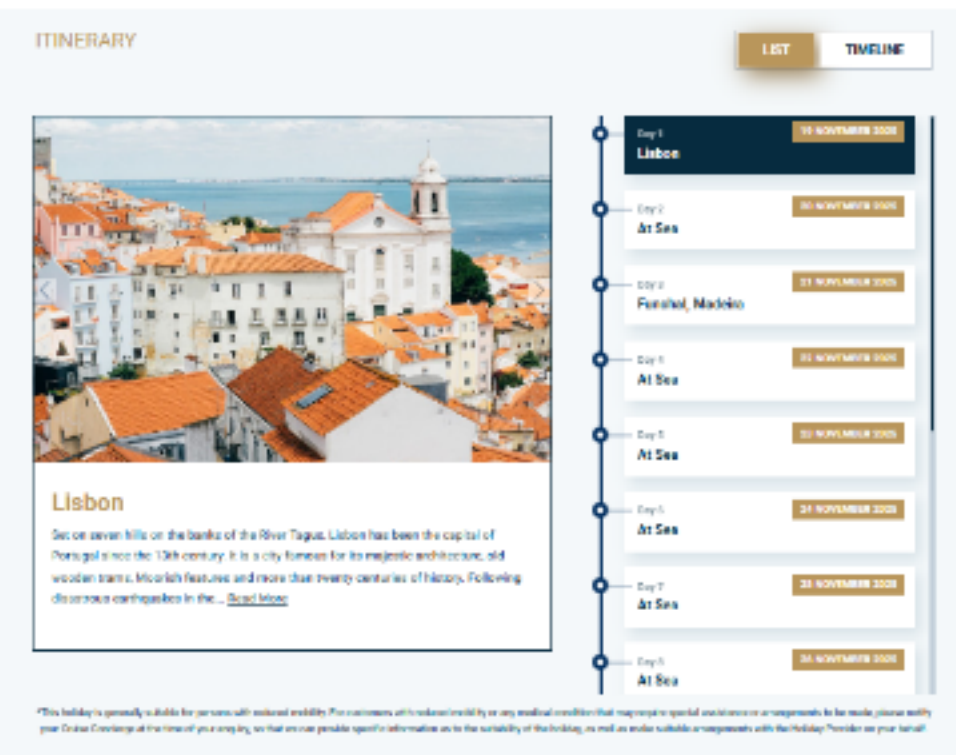

Something that would be nice to have here, is a section with the call button, add to wishlist, request a callback, and price, stick as you scroll down the page.

We would like 2 views for the itinerary page – one that displays just one 'from' price, and one that allows you to select more specific pricing like this https://www.sixstarcruises.co.uk/cruise/SILVERRA251119013

A visually appealing way of displaying the ports - this should show the port description too, but may be best to just display when you hover over the image so this looks clean

Section for 'Explore' ship and an explore Cabins section. There are multiple images per category, and each image has a title and description.
